SENIORS AND DISABLED

Precinct Four Constable Ron Hickman's office is pleased to announce the "Are You OK?" telephone reassurance program to seniors and homebound individuals of any age, in the community.

The Are You OK? Program is a free service to senior citizens or disabled individuals who are living independently within the Precinct Four jurisdiction in Harris county. The program provides a daily telephone call made by a computer to the homes of those persons subscribing to the program. If the telephone is answered, the computer "knows" that the person may not require emergency services. If the telephone is not answered, assistance is then dispatched to the subscriber's home.

Are You OK? Works to maintain or improve services for senior citizens/disabled persons by allowing them a feeling of security and, in turn encouraging growth and community participation.

Information and applications for the program may be obtained by contacting the Victim Assistance office at 281-401-6250 or the Dispatch office of the Constable at 281-376-3472. Applications may also be obtained through the Constable's web site located at <http://www.co.harris.tx.us/pct4>. When you get to the home page of our site, just follow the link in the middle of the page. We will provide information and applications at that time.

She saved the best for last!

I'm the only one left and I'm free to go home with you
